

User Briefing:

Hi! Thanks for participating in the usability testing of NavSense. Do you ever get lost in unfamiliar parts of town? Do ever you find yourself wondering how to get to that italian restaurant you loved so much? Luckily NavSense is here to help!

Today you will be tasked with using all aspects of the application while being observed by evaluators. No need to be nervous! We appreciate any feedback that we can gather from the experiment. Although you aren't provided with any sort of user manual, the NavSense UI should be easy enough to figure out on your own without any external assistance. Your goal here is to act naturally and use the application like you would if you just downloaded it from the app store.

You are invited to think aloud during the process to help the examiners with the evaluation of the system.