Observer Briefing:

Hi! Thanks for participating in the usability testing of NavSense. Today you will be in charge of observing how users interact with the NavSense application. Before beginning the test please familiarize yourself with the Android and Pebble applications by reading the User Manual. Once you have read through the user manual, take some time to use the applications for yourselves and try out its different functionalities. To begin the test, please refer to the usability test procedure and follow the steps outlined in that document.
